

ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY

Mustang Marine (Wales) Ltd. provides customers with products and services in the fields of marine vessel construction, marine vessel repair and conversion, general fabrication and engineering.

The Company is committed to:

- Compliance with all relevant environmental legislation and protocols in force now or at any time in the future
- The prevention of pollution
- The development of work practices and techniques that minimise detrimental effects on the immediate and global environment.

To enable the Company to fulfil these objectives, Mustang Marine (Wales) Ltd. has prepared a formal Environmental Management System which is intended to meet the requirements of BS EN ISO 14001:2004. All aspects of the business are subject to review and improvement to ensure that this Environmental Management System continues to develop.

The ultimate authority and responsibility for ensuring that the Environmental Management System operates effectively rests with the Managing Director. However all employees of the Company share a responsibility to ensure that every reasonable precaution is taken to avoid damage to air, land or water in the execution of works carried out by the Company.
